We extend this acknowledgement to all First Nations peoples across the Asia-Pacific region in which SEEK is proud to operate.

We pay respects to their rich cultures, to Elders past and present, and the continuing custodianship of the land, waterways and community on which we all rely.

OUTLOOK

Trading update

FY25 revenue and earnings likely to be in the top half of guidance ranges

	FY25 guidance	Update
Revenue	~$1.06bn – $1.10bn	Likely to be in the top half of range
Total expenditure	~$750m – $770m	Unchanged
EBITDA	~$440m – $470m	Likely to be in the top half of range
Adjusted Profit	~$135m – $160m	Likely to be in the top half of range

- FY25 revenue, EBITDA and Adjusted Profit are likely to be in the top half of guidance ranges
  - In ANZ, the recent upgrade of our ad tiers will support low double digit yield growth in FY25 vs pcp. The decline in job ad volumes has continued to stabilise in recent months and this trend is expected to continue
  - Asia revenue will be in line with pcp. This includes the early impacts of the freemium launch in Singapore, which has progressed as planned
  - Interest costs will be lower than original guidance following the receipt of funds from the SEEK Growth Fund's partial sell down of Employment Hero
- FY25 total expenditure will be in line with prior expectations

Based on Continuing Operations.

Operating leverage

Kendra Banks
Chief Financial Officer

We can deliver our product strategy and achieve operating leverage

"Run the business" costs will be stable...

- Core technology, sales and corporate costs will be stable; AI automation will target software development, customer management and sales preparation

... allows prioritisation of "grow the business" investment...

- Discretionary investment directed to product innovation that enhances the customer experience and grows placement and yield, particularly in AI, data and trust

... positions us to target operating leverage each year

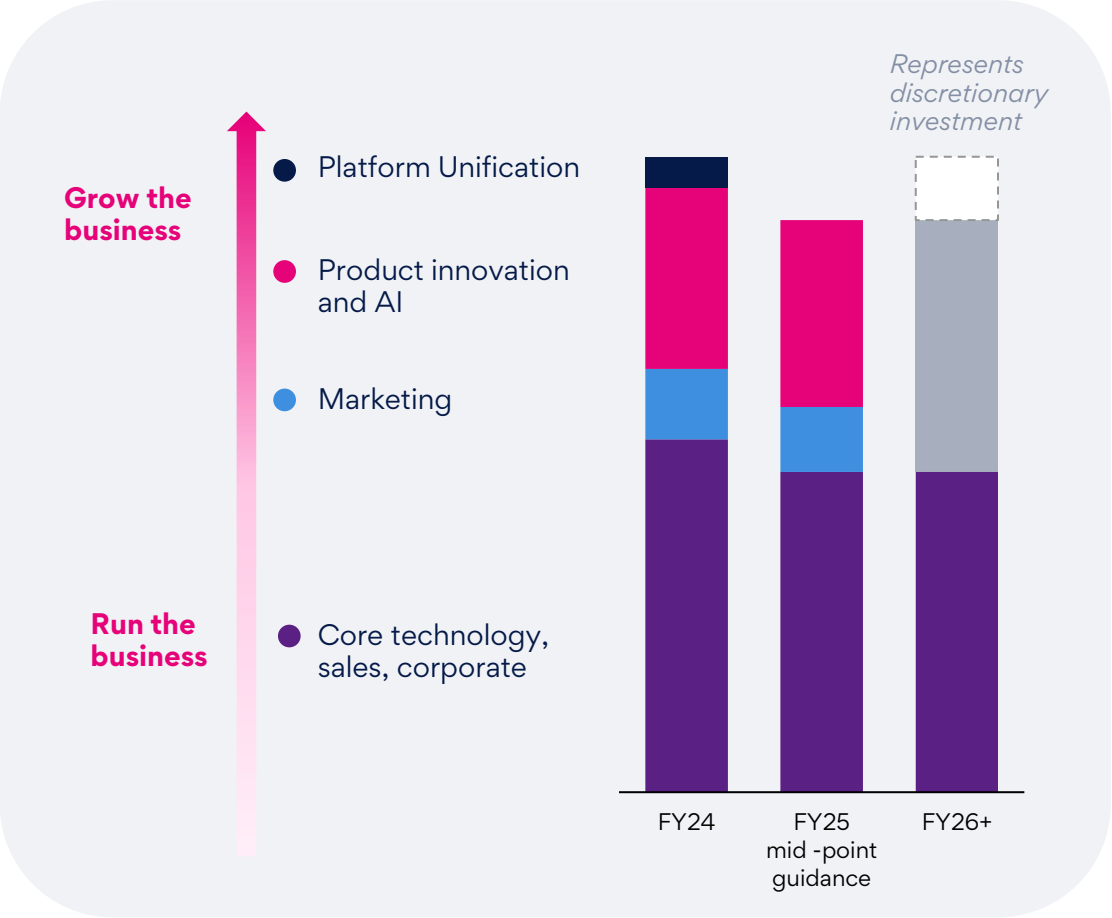
- Costs will grow slower than revenue, except in years of significant short-term revenue reduction
- Mid-high single digit cost growth through the cycle; capped at high single digit even in years of higher revenue growth



Graph is illustrative only and is not guidance. Classifications of expenditure vary from SEEK's statutory account disclosures. FY26+ illustrative expenditure based on assumption of revenue growth above cost growth.
